ROJESTVENSKY BOLDLY SAILS NORTHWARD.

Japanese Will Establish Basis Near Straits of Formosa.

NO HURRY TO FIGHT.

Russian Admiral Will Seek To Unite His Scattered Forces.

It is the belief of the Russian Admiralty at St. Petersburg that Admiral Rojestvensky is seeking to effect a junction of the divisions of his squadron, and it is considered probable that the concentration will be effected at Cape Padaram on the eastern coast of Cochin China. The Admiralty is still of the opinion that the great naval battle will be fought in the Straits of Formosa.

So far as ascertainable, Rojestvensky has no intention of putting into Saigon, the entrance to that port being narrow, but it is believed he will remain in the open sea.

It is learned that the Russian ships have on board patent appliances consisting of steel brushes attached to a sort of 'bellyband', which, running under the vessel, can be used quite effectively to clean the bottom. The speed of warships, it is calculated, can be increased at least a knot.

It is believed that the action of the Japanese Government in closing Kelung, Formosa, indicates that this port will be used by Admiral Togo as a base for his fleet.

Dispatches from Manchuria say that Gen. Kawamura and Gen. Nogi are moving to cut Russian communication with Vladivostok. Japan is said to be preparing to have more than a million soldiers in the field by next fall.

TWO RUNAWAYS.

One Vehicle Damaged and
Mrs. West Slightly Injured.

A team attached to Renshaw & Armstrong's transfer wagon became frightened at some object near the L. & N. freight depot yesterday shortly after noon and ran off. They clung to the wagon until it reached the clip and when Main street was in doing so ran into Judge W. T. Fowler's surrey. One of the shafts of the vehicle was broken and it was otherwise damaged. The team attached to the surrey was not broken, but it was a narrow escape for the animal. The horse belonged to Mr. D. T. Cranor.

During the minstrel parade just before noon a team ran away on South Main. The wagon struck a buggy belonging to Mrs. James West. Mrs. West had just gotten out of the buggy and she held on to the lines, thus preventing her horse from running off, too. One of Mrs. West's hands was hurt in the accident, but no serious consequences are anticipated. The runaway team was stopped in front of Mr. M. C. Forbes residence.

BLUE AND GRAY

Will Meet in Reunion at Washington City.

A two days' greeting to the American soldiers, contemplating a meeting of the veterans who opposed each other in battle in the sixties, has been arranged to take place in Washington, May 11 and 12. Invitations to participate have been sent every veteran association, North and South. The program contemplates more than thirty speeches of greeting and response, with an address of welcome by Gen. C. H. Groenvor, of Ohio. Other speakers will be Gen. Chase, past department commander, Grand Army of the Republic; Captain Griffith and Gen. Rosser, the youngest of the brigadier generals of the Confederate army.

PARK IMPROVEMENTS.

Morris Has Sent in Signed
Contract and Moore Is Expected to Report.

Contracts have been let for the improvements on the park and the work is under way. The fence on two sides will be raised two feet higher with sign boards. This space is being sold to merchants and those desiring to secure same should see Director John Stites. The Grounds will be rolled and smoothed over and the entrance will be made just north of the bleachers. A ticket office will be built and equipped with a telephone for the use of the officials and patrons. The grandstand will be divided and the east end will be cushioned and made reserved seats and a small additional price will be charged for these seats. All of the ground outside will be enclosed with a wire fence and the whole grounds covered by the lease will be posted and trespassers kept off by law.

The players have all been ordered to report next Thursday. Charlie Bomar arrived Tuesday and is the first on the ground. He is in fine condition and his pitching arm is no longer weak. The rest has made it all right.

Another new player named Baird is in the city, and has been signed for a try-out. He is an infielder.

Claude Veatch, of Danville, Ky., is another new man who has been signed. He played last year with a Franklin, Ind., team.

Forest Morris has sent in his contract, making 8 out of twelve of the old team to sign. Moore and Brady are expected to return. There will be two weeks of lively practice before the season opens.

Henderson let out 11 new men Tuesday who were tried and failed to make good.

The Pittsburgh Colts beat Paducah in a practice game Sunday by 7 to 2.

The Register says: "Shith, a first baseman from Georgetown, O., has arrived and will be tried-out by Manager Lloyd.

He is a big fellow and was

if he can play the bag and hit will strengthen the team.

"Doyle, an outfielder from Nashville, Tenn., is here for a trial. Paducah is certainly in need of one or two hard hitting outfields. If they can't hit outfields are no good."

TO OUR FARMER FRIENDS

Clarksville, Tennessee, January 3rd, 1905.—This crop of tobacco, being of better quality and shorter in average yield, are two reasons for expecting better prices. Besides, full confidence as to the final outcome, may be based upon the wise conclusion of the farmer to prize and put his tobacco in condition to hold for the best demands, only to be found on the open markets. The force of combines, who have ignored open markets, and we predict an era of greater prosperity will come to tobacco growers. The farmers will not regret the move they have made, and the more compact their organization, the greater their influence.

As we have done for the many years past, we solicit the patronage of farmers. As heretofore, our best efforts in their behalf will be rendered. Our warehouse is open day and night, and provided with good, comfortable free quarters for teams and teamsters under the same roof.

BEAUTY AND BEAST

It was an exceedingly small dog, but his ferocity was most alarming. Wistrom passed the house with the stone front; it darted out from the side passageway in a perfect fury of energy, excitement and pursued him with paroxysmal barking the entire length of the low fence that separated the lawn from the street, two feet lower than the stone front.

This time Wistrom made a threatening demonstration with his umbrella. It was an unwise thing to do, for it did not have a soothing effect on the little animal, which from that time forth seemed to lie in wait for him. Wistrom had to live out a few doors away. The moment he came in sight that brown, hairy streak would shoot from the passage, leap at him, all but sealing the tiny pickets, and raise such a clamor of barked that it seemed the whole street must be aroused. Wistrom became more and more resentful. The dog got on his nerves.

One morning as Wistrom started out he noticed that the front gate of the house with the stone front had been left open. He gripped his umbrella tightly and took deep breath as he stepped into the preliminary gateway at the passage entry. The next moment the dog was at the fence and, the next he discovered the open gate, and was out on the sidewalk at Wistrom's heels. Wistrom stopped. The dog retreated, still barking furiously; as he was out on the sidewalk the dog again sprang at his heel. Then, without turning, Wistrom brought his umbrella around with vicious force and—oh, joy!—caught the dog on the ribs.

"Oh, you coward!" It was a clear, youthful feminine voice. Wistrom looked up as the house door slammed and a girl with very pink cheeks and dimpled eyes yellow hair, very pretty, ran down the steps and into the house, carrying her pet with her.

It was a remarkable thing, but Wistrom instantly regretted hitting the dog.

All day long he thought of the girl with the blue eyes and yellow hair, and the more he thought of her the more poignant became his regret. After all, on eminent authority, it was the nature and delight of dogs to bark and bite, and why should they be struck with an umbrella for following a purebred animal?

For weeks Wistrom looked in vain at the house as he passed for some sign of the pretty girl. He did not even see the dog. On Sundays, when he was at home all day, he did nothing but sit by the window watching to see her. Some time soon, he thought, the chance would come, and then—

It came at last, that chance. Wistrom was walking down an obscure street one afternoon when he saw a forlorn and mud-caked little dog that was shivering and whining dismally. It was something familiar about that dog, Wistrom thought, and he stopped to look at it more attentively. Yes, it was certainly the dog. If there had been any doubt about it, the way he snarled and snapped when Wistrom stopped to pick him up would have inmediately settled it. Undoubtedly the dog had strayed away.

Well, muddy and wet as he was Wistrom stowed him underneath his coat, to the coat's and a white waist-coat's ruin, and half an hour later he was ringing the bell of the house when the same frantic and maimed animal answered the ring, and went into ecstasies of delight at the sight of the dog. It was quite a touching reunion. She—the elderly lady—was most grateful to Wistrom, too, and so pleased to see him that he was invited to stay for dinner. The old woman, who explained, had been confined to the house in consequence of a ruffianly young hoodlum having abused him, and on being let out for exercise had scampered off.

Wistrom coughed behind his hand. "Your daughter will, no doubt, be glad to see her pet again," he said, pointing to the dog.

"My daughter?" "I—er—supposed the young lady to be your daughter," said Wistrom. "A rather tall young lady, with blue eyes—"

"Oh," said the lady of the house, "that was my daughter. She was married a few weeks ago. She went back to Dubuque and was married last Thursday. A lovely girl!"

Raga was growling at his rescuer. And the next morning, as Wistrom passed he ran out and barked at him as savagely as ever. Boston Budget.

London is a close to a century since the walls was introduced to English society at a hall at Devonshire house; and only now has the walls record made its appearance. They began to walls at 2:30 p.m. and kept on dancing until 7:30 p.m., without a stop, when the committee decided to divide the prize.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contains Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the nostrils. Such articles should never be used on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimony—Price, 75c per bottle. Peculiar To Itself

In what it is and what it does—containing the best blood-purifying, alterative and tonic substances and effecting the most radical and permanent cures of all humors and all eruptions, relieving weak, tired, languid feelings, and building up the whole system—is true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

No other medicine acts like it; no other medicine has done so much real, substantial good, no other medicine has restored health and strength at so little cost.

"I was troubled with scrofula and some loss of my weight. For four months I could not see to do anything. After taking two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla I could see to walk, and when I had taken eight bottles I could see as well as ever."—SUSAN A. HANSWELL, Wethers, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

Editor S. M. Jenkins, of the Crittenton Press, whose office was destroyed in the Marion fire, has already started up again, losing only one issue. His enterprise is commendable. Judge Hargis is still county judge of Breathitt county, although he has been in jail for three weeks.

Gov. Cox has granted a respite till May 5 to Tom Cox, murderer of a policeman, who was to be hanged at Nashville tomorrow.

WILL USE THE QUILT.

Romantic Marriage of a Paducah Man and Milton Woman.

Milton, Ky., April 11.—A romantic wedding took place here Sunday. The contracting parties were Miss Louise Singer, of near Milton, and Mr. Harry G. Wilson, of Paducah. Miss Singer has earned something of a national reputation by a quilt which she pieced during the past ten years. This remarkable quilt contains 122,616 pieces. Each piece is only one-eighth of an inch square. Earl Broadbald (excused), W. H. Clark (excused), Herman Chappell (excused), V. E. Chappell (excused), E. B. Cartwright (excused), E. W. Those absent without excuse are liable to a fine of $5 for missing inspection and for further punishment for disobedience of orders.

The inspection was public and a large crowd of visitors was on hand during the inspection, which lasted from 8 to 10 p. m.

Capt. Saville was in charge of the inspection and the inspection was rigid in the extreme. No detail was overlooked.

The company was well prepared and Capt. Saville appeared to be greatly pleased with the excellent condition of the company.

The company was inspected in heavy marching order and the equipment was found perfect in every detail, all in first-class condition. Uniforms were neat and clean, the men all newly shaved, neatly attired and carefully prepared in every way for the inspection.

The report will of course be made in due form, but Capt. Saville did not hesitate to say that the inspection was one of the best he had made.

After the inspection was over Col. Gaines took charge and gave some instructions to the company, complimenting the men highly. He said he commanded the Hopkinsville men in the Spanish war and closely allied to the company on that account.

Capt. Saville and Col. Gaines left yesterday for Bowling Green, where they inspected Co. H last night.

TELEPHONING ON CONGO.

Impossible to Talk During the Middle of the Day Because of the Heat.

The telegraph and telephone lines of the Belgian Congo region show some peculiarities both in the construction of the lines and their operation, owing to the climate and the character of the country.

Where the lines run through the forests, the wires are placed as much as possible upon trees, and in other cases upon iron poles, says the Scientific American. The wire, which is of phosphor-bronze, is painted black, so as not to attract the attention of the natives, who lay hands upon all the copper they can find.

The other brilliant objects of the line, such as the insulators, are also painted black. A cutting 30 feet wide is made through the forest for the line, so that there is no risk of fire or falling trees.

Besides the telegraph offices of Leopoldville, Kwamouth and Conquithville, there are nine telephone offices and six cabins. The latter are used for communicating with the steamboats on the river.

The first hours after sunset are the best for telephoning, and it is impossible to telephone direct from Matada to Kwamouth, or 380 miles. From the latter point to Bonia, or 410 miles, the voice is still heard.

After ten a. m. the heat makes it impossible to use the telephone, especially in the rainy season. This is due to the fact that a return wire is not used, and the use of the earth return is accompanied by great disturbance in the middle of the day.

The greatest enemies of the telephone lines are the wild animals. In the rainy season atmospheric discharges often strike the wires, therefore the lines need to be constantly inspected and repaired.

TEA IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Figures published by the Tea Brokers' Association of London for the five months ending October 31, 1904, show a diminution in the consumption of tea in the British Isles to the extent of 4,000,000 pounds, as compared with the corresponding time in 1903, an increase of dire poverty.

Romantic Marriage of a Pa.

ducah Man and Milton

Woman.

Milton, Ky., April 11.—A romantic wedding took place here Sunday. The contracting parties were Miss Louise Singer, of near Milton, and Mr. Harry G. Wilson, of Paducah. Miss Singer has earned something of a national reputation by a quilt which she pieced during the past ten years. This remarkable quilt contains 122,616 pieces. Each piece is only one-eighth of an inch square.

Those absent without excuse are liable to a fine of $5 for missing inspection and for further punishment for disobedience of orders.

The inspection was public and a large crowd of visitors was on hand during the inspection, which lasted from 8 to 10 p. m.

Capt. Saville was in charge of the inspection and the inspection was rigid in the extreme. No detail was overlooked.

The company was well prepared and Capt. Saville appeared to be greatly pleased with the excellent condition of the company.

The company was inspected in heavy marching order and the equipment was found perfect in every detail, all in first-class condition. Uniforms were neat and clean, the men all newly shaved, neatly attired and carefully prepared in every way for the inspection.

The report will of course be made in due form, but Capt. Saville did not hesitate to say that the inspection was one of the best he had made.

After the inspection was over Col. Gaines took charge and gave some instructions to the company, complimenting the men highly. He said he commanded the Hopkinsville men in the Spanish war and closely allied to the company on that account.

Capt. Saville and Col. Gaines left yesterday for Bowling Green, where they inspected Co. H last night.

TIME FOR REFLECTION.

Will Be Given a Youth Who Played Outlaw.

Charles Rodgers, Webster county's noted young outlaw, was sentenced to serve three years in the penitentiary for horse stealing at Dixon Thursday. He was tried on a charge of housebreaking Friday and it is thought several years more will be added to his term, says the Houstonian.

Rodgers was the terror of Webster and Hopkins county all last summer. He and his brother, William, first became prominent when they robbed the home of their uncle, Josh Howton, in the Happy Hollow country in broad daylight. A deputy sheriff who went to Providence to arrest them succeeded, with the assistance of the local police, of Providence, in arresting the brothers, but Charles Rodgers turned the officers back from the house where he lived with a Winchester rifle.

The young man then turned outlaw. He lived in parts of Webster and Hopkins counties for several months, being given shelter by the people who were friends to the Redskins. Later he robbed a house and stole a horse from J. B. Vandiver, near Golds, Webster county, last November.

About three months ago he was arrested by his uncle who succeeded in capturing him before the young outlaw could use his gun. He was placed in jail at Dixon and his trial Thursday resulted in the sentence of three years.

AFTER 26 YEARS A NEGRO COMES BACK FOR TRIAL.

Jim Holloway Arrested For Killing Andrew Bradshaw

August 5th, 1879.

CAUGHT IN PADUCAH.

Indictment Filed Away 20

Years Ago Hunted Up and Reinstated.

At the August election held near Believel, August 4, 1879, a negro named Jim Holloway shot and mortally wounded another negro named Andrew Bradshaw. After lingering for a few days, Bradshaw died.

The files of the Kentuckian show that the negroes were at a bran- dance not far from the polls and that the shooting was done with a small 22 calibre pistol. Bradshaw was hit in the bowel. Holloway disappeared down the road and never returned to Believel.

More than a quarter of a century has elapsed, but Holloway has at last been caught and will be tried for the crime. He was arrested at Paducah Monday and is now in jail here. At the September court 1879 he was indicted, but as he could not be found the indictment was filed away in 1885 with leave to reinstate. A few days ago Holland was located at Paducah and Deputy Sheriff Geo. M. Clark was detailed to go and get him. He was found working in a gravel pit and admitted his identity. The old indictment had been re- stored from a heap of rubbish in the tower of the court house and was re- instated just before court adjourned last week. It bore the name of Rice Dulin as foreman. The witnesses named are Thos. Mabry, Joe Wim, Mack Johnson, Claude R. Clark and Mack Ricketts. Mr. Clark is the present circuit court clerk and his brother, Geo. Clark, made the arrest. They were small children at the time the affair occurred.

The Kentuckian's account of the trial was written by the present editor, who had begun his newspaper career a few months before.

Judge John R. Grace, Sheriff C. M. Brown, foreman Rice Dulin, and Clerk B. T. Underwood, who was in office when the indictment was filed away, are all dead.

Holloway says that he went to Birmingham in Marshall county, where he lived seven years. He never communicated with his family in this county. From Marshall county he moved to Paducah, where he has been for seventeen years, working a gravel pit and at present has a contract to furnish gravel to the city. He was 31 years old when he left 26 years ago. Time has apparently dealt kindly with him, as he is still physically well-preserved.

He claims that the pistol was discharged as he pulled it from his pocket and that Bradshaw was shot accidentally. The Kentuckian's account the day after the shooting says that "Holloway had out his pistol and was 'bullying' or threatening Bradshaw when the pistol went off." Whiskey was flowing freely at the bran-dance and Holloway was under the influence of liquor.

A Paducah paper says Holloway has been an industrious working man there and was well known.

Believel, where the killing occurred, is no longer on the map. It went about two miles east of the present town of Gracey.

Holloway had been living under an assumed name since the killing. He was known in Paducah as "Bill Houston," and in addition to gravel digging and well digging, he told fortunes.

Full of Tragic Meaning are those lines from J. H. Simmons, of Casey, Ia. Think what might have resulted from his terrible cough if he had not taken the medicine about which he writes: "I had a terrible cough, that disturbed my night's rest. I tried everything, but nothing would help. Then I took Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, which completely cured me." Instantly relieves and permanently cures all throat and lung diseases; prevents grip and pneumonia. At R. C. Hardwick's, druggist; guaranteed; 50¢ and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

UNCOMMON WISDOM.

Some Hopkinsville People
Profit By Neighbor's Experience.

It's a wise man who profits by the experience of his friends and neighbors. Here is a chance to do it and every body who knows the miseries of a broken heart, the nervousness and restlessness caused by kidney complaint or the annoyance of urinary disorders, will show uncommon wisdom to profit by this citizen's advice.

J. W. Pritchett, retired grocer of 752 East Main street, which has given me a great deal of trouble. The pain was not continually severe, but came on by intermitting spells, which were sometimes very painful especially after over-exertion of any kind. Being constantly on the lookout for something to relieve me, I happened to read in "Dr. Kidney Pills" which were so impressed with the testimonials as to their worth, that I procured a box at Thomas & Tamm's drug store. The pills benefitted me in every way and I hope that my endorsement will be the means of extending relief to some other sufferer.

Little Journeys
To the Homes of Great Restorers.

We have all been charmed with the sincerity of the woman who called to her neighbor, "How are ye? Not that I care a hang, but just to make a little noise."

There is one sort of communication that does not belong to the conventional, forced type. It is the call of the wife, the prayer of the sufferer, the letter of the sick to the trusted physician.

If one is ill enough to admit it, he or she is likely to be given the best and best help, not vague, experimental, general dosing. Coffin varnish proved to be the last remedy in the world for Mr. Peck's rheumatism, and is only one of a thousand cases on record where they had to guess again. There is indiscriminate taking, as well as indiscriminate giving, and the kind and helpless are the victims. Two-thirds of the graft of the world is being looted from the sick.

This is the home office of a physician who has broken the world's record for the number of patients examined and treated. Is this doctor with thousands of patients, with a mail large enough to warrant a special mail service, giving the world a square deal? Is he giving each case individual attention? Is he able to give the sufferer the best and best help in his hands the latest and most improved treatment that science offers? Does he hold the record for the number of cases seen?

This is a big scientific question and it should be approached with the true scientific spirit of faithful inquiry, free from bias.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, head of the famous World's Dispensary Medical Association at Buffalo, would tell you that he does not accept the superstitious fear of reading the human heart letter sent to him day in and day out, year after year.

Marshall Field, the great Chicago merchant, would make many words of personal sympathy, and is one of the most generous in his gifts.

In great concerns the work is systematized, with each detail in the hands of an expert. When Samantha Allard, the young actress, was ill, she insisted upon buying of Dr. Pierce the latest and most improved treatment that science offers.

But Mr. A. T. Stewart happened to be out. Dr. Pierce had built up a great scientific bureau of his own, and when you call or go to him for advice you get the prompt, direct, personal help your case demands.

If you have located within you are not set upon an impossible course, Dr. Pierce has specialized on the ear in some foreign hospital. You get an expert upon your special trouble. If you apply for help, you will find that he has been studied and immediately submitted to the physician who has devoted his life to fighting your particular trouble.

If you are ill, you are in the hands of a doctor who has specialized for years upon the disease that threatens you. Which is the scientific way to get help? The doctor who has the most omniscient knowledge or the best advice upon your case.

Who is likely to be of the greatest help in time of trouble, one lone doctor passing upon twenty diseases, or twenty doctors ready to give their best advice upon each case?

It is the day of the specialists, and the World's Dispensary Medical Association, with its staff of eminent physicians, its dispensary and splendidly equipped laboratory, with its world-famous medicines and its honor and care in dealing with the public, has fairly won the largest patronage that medicine can command.

Thus ends this little journey to a great life-saving station. The cures are on record. Who runs may read.
